PHIL WALKER - COMEDIAN

One of the few comedians in the country whose work has encompassed everything from all the major holiday venues throughout the UK - Butlins, Pontins, Haven, Oasis, Blackpool Pleasure Beach. Major tour operators like Thomson and Airtours, corporate events for the likes of British Airways and Sony, major tours supporting the likes of Michael Ball and Max Boyce, to renowned comedy clubs such as The Comedy Store and Jongleurs.

His act has also become a firm favourite with the forces and has taken him as far afield as the Falkland Islands, Germany, Bosnia (during the war where he entertained over 2,000 troops) and more recently Kosovo.

Television credits include, Granada T.V' s The Comedians, Talking telephone numbers (three series), Live at Jonglours with Rick Wakeman, & channel 5's THE BIG STAGE.

Last year saw Phil appearing at The Comedy Zone on Central Pier in Blackpool, a concept he helped create in conjunction with Leisure Parcs Ltd.

He also made his debut in pantomime starring as Buttons in Cinderella on ice at King Georges Hall in Blackburn.

What the critics have said:

He has a rubbery cartoonish face and an original line in observation.

"Garry Bushell, The Sun.

"He has some sharp observations on the absurdities of life and looks to be developing a distinct style of comedy.

'Kevin Berry, The Stage.

'The constant round of bookings have honed this young comedian into a supremely confident performer who has the courage, ability and wisdom to constantly update his material without forgetting those elements of his act which are firm favourites and well-worn winners.

'Robin Duke, The Stage
